Reading 3: A Story (Items 12-15)

Directions: Read the story and choose the BEST answers to the questions.

Once, there was a young boy. This boy had problems controlling his anger. When he got angry, he would say the first thing that came to mind, even if it hurt people.

One day, his father gifted him a hammer and a bundle of nails, then said, "Whenever you get mad, hammer a nail into the backyard fence."

The boy used up half of his nails in the first few days. Over the following weeks, he used up fewer nails until his temper was under control. The father then asked the young boy to remove a nail for each day he didn't lose his temper.

On the day when the boy had removed his last nail, his father told him, "You have done good, boy. But can you see the holes in the wall? The fence is never going to be the same. Likewise, when you say mean things in anger, you'll leave a scar."

12. What did we learn about the boy in the first paragraph?
    1. He could not control his speaking when angry.
    2. His anger usually led to devastating violence.
    3. He wasn't able to speak when he was angry.
    4. He normally impressed others with words when angry.

13. Which of the following is TRUE about the boy?
    1. Removing the nails from the fence, he lost his temper.
    2. Receiving gifts from his father, he never lost his temper.
    3. He got angry so often that he used up all the nails he had.
    4. He got angry less often because of the use of hammer and nails.

14. What is the father's purpose for telling the boy to take out the nails?
    1. To suggest he reuse the nails for economic reasons.
    2. To warn him that bad words, once said, are never forgotten.
    3. To help him find ways to repair the holes in the wood fence.
    4. To teach him to repair relationships with friends by apologizing.

15. What is the best title for the story?
    1. Useful Tools
    2. Father Knows Best
    3. Anger Turns into Tears
    4. Words Heal All Wounds

Reading 4: A News Report and a Fact Sheet (Items 16-19)

Directions: Choose the BEST answers using the information from the News Report and the Fact Sheet.

News Report

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Sea lions are stranding themselves on a long stretch of the California coast and showing signs that they may have been poisoned by a bloom of harmful algae, experts said Thursday.

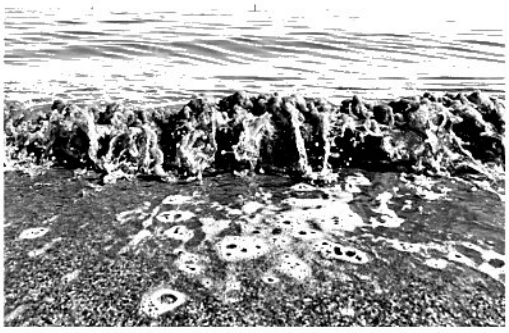

The Channel Islands Marine & Wildlife Institute said that since July 26, there have been reports of sick sea lions along 155 miles (249 kilometers) of shoreline in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, northwest of Los Angeles. The nonprofit said it had rescued 23 animals so far.

The marine mammals are suffering from domoic acid, a neurotoxin that affects the brain and heart, the institute said in a statement. The poisoning event is largely affecting adult female California sea lions, it said.

An outbreak last year was particularly severe, with hundreds sea lions and dozens of dolphins dying in the first weeks of June.

The poison is produced by microscopic algae that are consumed by shellfish and small fish that are then eaten by sea lions, dolphins and birds. Symptoms in affected sea lions may include confusion, foaming at the mouth and seizures. People can also get sickened.

Algae Fact Sheet

What are algae?

Algae are microscopic organisms that live in aquatic environments and use photosynthesis to produce energy from sunlight, just like plants. Algae can be found in all types of natural waters, including salt water, fresh water, and brackish water (a mix of salt and fresh water).

What is a harmful algal bloom?

A harmful algal bloom (HAB) occurs when toxin-producing algae grow excessively in a body of water. The excessive algal growth, or algal bloom, becomes visible to the naked eye and can be green, blue-green, red, or brown, depending on the type of algae.

What are impacts from HABs?

HABs can damage the environment by depleting oxygen in the water, which can kill fish and other living creatures. HABs can cause serious health effects and even death. The algae Pseudo-nitzschia produces a toxin called domoic acid that can cause vomiting, diarrhea, confusion, permanent short term memory loss, and sudden heart failure or death, when consumed at high levels.

16. What is the News Report mainly about?
    1. The causes of a harmful algal bloom on the California coast
    2. The spread of a toxic algal bloom along the California coast
    3. The effect of a harmful algal bloom on California sea lions
    4. The symptoms of domoic acid poisoning in California sea lions

17. How does the Fact Sheet help readers understand the news more clearly?
    1. By explaining how algal blooms are formed
    2. By giving reasons why algal blooms spread very quickly
    3. By describing the different colors of algal blooms in the sea
    4. By providing information about the dangers of toxic algal blooms

18. Which of the following is TRUE about California sea lions?
    1. Only adult female sea lions have been affected by harmful algae.
    2. They eat small fish and shellfish that consume bad algae.
    3. All of them have been reported dying on the California coast since July 26.
    4. The affected sea lions do not have any symptoms if they do not eat toxic algae directly.

19. What can be inferred from the last paragraph of the News Report?
    1. Sea lions are primary consumers in the marine food chain.
    2. Marine mammals die when they directly touch domoic acid.
    3. Eating fish and shellfish during algal blooms can become a risk to people.
    4. The symptoms of domoic acid poisoning in sea lions include vomiting and diarrhea.

Reading 5: A Feature Story (Items 20 – 23)

Directions: Read the feature story and choose the BEST answers.

Red Nose Day (RND) is a well-known event in the UK. It is called Red Nose Day because on this day many people buy a plastic red nose to wear. The money made from selling these red noses goes to charity.

Back in 1985, Comic Relief started as a charity with the desire to respond to the severe famine in Ethiopia at the time. The desire was to get comedians together to help people laugh while raising support to help people around the world.

The following year, the notion of Red Nose day was established and was then held every other year, broadcast on British Television (BBC). Although the charity focuses have changed throughout the years, the organization continues to raise funds for those in need.
